BAND CHAT.

Brother H. Band has re-organized the Band. The Band is doing well, although lacking in commissioned Bandmaster—A. C. It has been hunted in other parts of the War Cry that a Band would be re-organized at West. The last Sunday the Band appeared in public—the great joy of the Soldiers and all con-

THE VANCOUVER SONGSTER BRIGADE.

Brigadier and Mrs. Green, Major and Mrs. Phillips, and Adjutant and Mrs. Howell may be seen in front. The names of the others are as follows (reading from the left): Back Row, Bro. Allan, W. Day, Sisters Delves, Mariette, Sparr, La Poliva, La Buty, Bros. Mitchell and Orr. Second Row—Sisters Marjorie, Gaskell, Gregory, Shaw, Gomm, Delves, Wilson, Stride, and Richard, Bro. Edes. Front Row—Sister L. Phillips, T. Ramsey (Leader).

Bro. W. Henderson is the Bandmaster, and the men give promise of "making good" under his hand. Several leaders are being brought into line by Bro. Joe Davis, and so reinforcements are expected in no distant date.—J. H.

On Thursday, Nov. 21, the Niagara Falls (Ont.) Band went to Buffalo where, with the Niagara Falls (N.Y.) Band, they united in a special musical festival. The relationship existing between the comrades of these Bands is of the most agreeable nature, and very soon the two U.S. A. Bands are to give the same festival at Niagara Falls, Ont. Real Salvation results, this.

Regina Band continues to make headway under the able leadership of Bandmaster Henderson. Our most recent additions include Bro. Panchard, late of Moose Jaw (sold out), and Bro. Menzie, late of Regina, Scotland. (See note.) When in the open-air, the Band is always sure of a good crowd, as the people are proud of the Army Band. Every Thursday, the men are in charge of the meeting, and even more are saved on these occasions. Recently five of the Bandmen assisted at a musical service at the Rae Street Methodist Church on behalf of a new building. Their efforts were much appreciated.

On Sunday, Nov. 17th, we had a special Bandman Burton, who returned to the Old Country, though here only a few months, he was a power for good in our midst. The Band played him to the accompaniment of the train steamed out of the station. We wish you all to meet again. A dinner was made on the crowd around the station. We have just purchased a new euphonium (silver-plated).

Other instruments are expected soon. Interested ones.

Although no news, from a local source, its come to hand regarding the promotion to Glory in England of Bandmaster George Jackson, late of Ryerdyk and Chester Corps, yet we feel it to be only fitting that some reference should be made to him in Band Chat. Brother Jackson came to Canada from Camberwell (S. E. London), where he had been an Army Bandman

Montreal IV. Band gave a musical festival at the Corps last Monday, Staff-Captain Walton taking the chair. The Hall was packed. On the programme appeared the "Austria," "Old Times," and "Weirdies" marches, the "Saviour at the Door" selection, etc., besides recitations such as "The Veteran's Old Corner" and "How Jim Johnson Formed the Band," as well as solos, duets, etc.

The Band is making great progress both in quality and quantity. It is over twenty strong, and more instruments will soon be purchased. The Band is beginning fortnightly musical meetings, to be taken by two different Bandmen on each occasion. A Songster Brigade is also being formed.—D.

Glad to get your report.—Ed.

From the latest "Bandmaster and Songster": Tavistock (England) Band and Songsters recently said good-bye to a much-loved comrade, viz., Bandman J. H. Hear, who was also Songster Leader. He has transferred to Niagara Falls, Ontario, Canada, where he now plays his euphonium.

Laurence Kromar, of Vienna, has invented a "music typewriter" under the name of the "Kromarograph." With the aid of this instrument the composer may produce a typewritten scroll without the trouble of making the characters by hand. All that he has to do is to place himself at the piano, and give free play to his creative fancies. Every stroke upon the keys is registered in aid of this musical characters upon a paper scroll wound upon a drum. Next!

Adjutant and Mrs. Kendall are certainly taking an interest in the Band, and we are looking forward to a successful winter campaign. The sympathy and prayers of our comrades are asked for Band Sergeant and Mrs. Fowler, who are mourning the death of Mrs. Fowler's mother, who passed away very suddenly.—Weston.

THE WAR CRY.

THE WORLD and ITS WAYS

A Curious Meeting House.

"Every district of importance in the towns of Sumatra possesses a balei, or native meeting-place, which the Dutch Regent visits periodically in order to discuss with his subordinates the affairs of the district," says a writer in the Wide World Magazine. The photograph on this page shows a typical balei, taken just after a sitting. "These Sumatran meeting houses are very quaint," he continues, "and are decorated with beautiful inlaid work at the ends and a tapering roof of fine palm, ornamented with bright brasswork, which glitters in the sun, setting it off most picturesquely against a background of tall coconut trees and a forest of forest tropical plants. A space is left between the ground and the flooring, the reason of which is obvious, for in the tropics, during the heavy season, the inhabitants are often visited with floods, so, in order to safeguard themselves in such an emergency, most of the buildings are erected on stilts."

One of Earth's "Dark Places."

At Sierra Leone, on the west coast of Africa, nearly 200 persons have been arrested in connection with the discovery of human remains. It is believed that the victims were kidnapped for the purposes of sacrifice and cannibalism. There are several secret societies among the heathen and Mohammedans in the hinterland. The worst are the "Alligator" and the "Leopard," and the latter are responsible for the present cruelties.

It is named the Leopard Society because its leaders are always robed in the skins of leopards. The victim is secured and killed for sacrifice or food, not because he or she is wicked, but because of some particular excellence or efficacious power, which would furnish the murderer with a charm or fetish.

Truly the "dark places of the earth are full of the habitations of cruelty."

There is need for more earnest missionary effort ere these terrible superstitious and heathen customs will be swept away.

An Imperial Corner Garden.

Earl Grey, former Governor-General of Canada, recently made a strong appeal for the establishment of a central market in London, at which the produce of the overseas dominions could be displayed and sold. Apart from the fiscal question, he had no doubt the people of England would prefer to buy goods from their overseas kinsmen. It was impossible, so to speak, to have existing conditions. They might establish a sort of Imperial Covenanted Garden, where there would be a Canadian stall, an Australian, a New Zealand, and a South African stall.

A Typical Sumatran "Balei" or Meeting House.

He also strongly urged stimulation of the women's emigration movement under the direction of excellent charitable organizations. More, he believed, might be made of the splendid and disinterested services of the Salvation Army.

Must Have Fifty Dollars.

All immigrants landing in Canada during the winter months must now have the sum of $50 in cash on them. This is to prevent their becoming a care on the State.

In the summer months, owing to the great demand for men and the consequent certainty of work for the newcomers, no "property qualification" whatever will be insisted on.

Emigration From Britain.

The total number of emigrants leaving the Old Country last October was 40,209, of whom 26,519 went to other parts of the Empire. Canada received 12,361; Australia, 9,229; and the United States, 11,614.

England sent 28,000; Wales 878; Scotland 5,116; and Ireland 5,359.

Christianizing the Nardars.

Missionaries report that the most remarkable success has been their work among the Nardars, a people of Southern India. They are coming by hundreds to the Christian churches, and asking to be enrolled as converts.

The traditional occupation of this caste is to climb the palm tree, cut the fronds and bark, and make it into a sugar or keli, the native beer. Because of the low social position of the Nardars have long been imposed on by the Brahmins, not even being allowed to worship in the temples; but since the advent of the mission house, where they are welcomed, they have not

The Hudson Bay Region.

As the news filters down into the cities of Canada of great finds of gold, silver, copper, and even diamonds in the Hudson's Bay region, people are asking if another "El Dorado" will be discovered there. There seems to be a sort of amalgamated but feverish haste on the part of the great railway companies, and the provincial governments, to obtain control of the wealth of this great country.

At the present moment an expedition is on its way to the north country to stake the claims upon which the finds have been made. The rock formation in this district is identical with that in the States of Indiana, and it is supposed that in the glacial period the formation was carried from the north into the United States, leaving the other and better half behind.

Not only is the country believed to be rich in mineral products, but there is plenty of timber and pulp

Turkish Titles.

In reading accounts of the present war in Turkey, one is apt to get confused over the many strange names mentioned. We recall that the Bashibazouks made a raid, for instance, and wonder what nation they belong to.

Bashibazouks are irregular Turkish auxiliaries. The Fomaks, Moslem mountaineers of the Balkan range, who are now offering a strenuous resistance to the Bulgarian invaders, are correctly described as Bashibazouks.

The regular army consists of Nizam, Redif, and Mustahf. Nizam is a young Ottoman who is serving his term of military service. When a Nizam has finished his time in the active army, he passes through the habit or first reserve, and into the Redif, or second reserve. The Redif form the main part of the Turkish army in time of war.

Finally, when the soldier of Redif has reached the age of 30 years they become mustahf, a sort of general militia, to be called upon only in times of grave emergency. An Ottoman is liable to serve up to the age of 70. The mysterious word ordu, so commonly used in our war news, simply means army corps.

Japs Anticipate Increased Trade.

The Japanese are watching the cutting of the Panama Canal with interest, and are already making plans to increase their passenger and freight transportation. They believe that the opening of the canal will cause their trade to increase by leaps and bounds. One steamship company, it is announced, will begin at once the outfitting of three monster ships for the fleets of San Francisco and Panama lines, now running; all three of the new ships to be built in British yards and to be of greater tonnage than any vessels now engaged in the Pacific trade.

They are also contemplating the establishment on leased ground of a great coaling station at Honolulu, Hawaii, where its ships now engaged in the South-American trade may get supplies and possibly transship their cargoes.

well received. Farewell words were spoken by Colonel Mainland, the Commissioner, and the wife of the Commissioner.

The journey across to head Victoria was taken advantage of for a long conference with the District Major, D. D. McDonald, and other important business and other matters passed by quickly.

On arriving at Victoria we were met by Ensign McDonald, and in the afternoon the District Major gave us a very interesting interview to which the meeting which followed was really fine. An earnest and enthusiastic crowd of the Hall of Fame demonstrated their joy at seeing our leader in an exceptionally happy fashion. Preliminaries over the excellent band rendered it obvious which so pleased our Leader the another was requested, and again did the Band do right nobly and well.

The Chief Secretary, introduced by the Commissioner, gave a speech after singing a chorus in three languages. He returned to the Commissioner's office.

After Brigadier Green had said the Commissioner gave his interesting and instructive address on General Bramwell Bouché. The lecture was excellent and of profound interest, and was punctuated by frequent cheers. The Commissioner did excellently and turned to give a most interesting address on the beloved General's life.

The Commissioner's closing words were powerfully delivered, and his final challenge to the audience.

"Well! And you, my friends, do as well as you can, for the sake of the cause." Four men and women responded to the call, and this declaration was powerful and blessed cheering.

Immediately following the service the Commissioner and the Chief Secretary gave interviews to reporters. The latter were Mr. McDonald and Mrs. McDonald, the well known Commanding Officers, are enjoying prosperous times. — Col. Gaskin.

International Visitors.

Commissioner Lamb in Toronto.
Colonel Mitchell on His Way to Canada.

Commissioner Lamb arrived in Toronto on Wednesday morning in a plane straight to Territorial Headquarters.

Mr. D. D. McDonald, District Major, who met the Commissioner at Halifax and travelled with him to Montreal, Ottawa, and other important cities in the East. The Commissioner planned into business and conferences with the District Major, and at the conclusion of a few days left for Winnipeg, where he will remain until he returns to Toronto and return with him to Ottawa. By that time it is expected that Colonel George Mitchell, who has been in England, will have arrived in the city. We have not yet been informed as to what public meetings our distinguished visitors will conduct. At next week's Cry we hope to give fuller particulars of their visit and the results of the meeting. Commissioner Lamb conducted at Ottawa on Sunday.

The Commissioner came over on the "Victorian," and had a rather rough voyage. Nevertheless he is in excellent health, and in good strength. Welcome to Canada.

A splendid crowd attended the Holiness meeting following an open-air meeting, the usual attendant being well-nigh doubled. Lieut.-Colonel Turner, who, in the absence of Brigadier Potter (the Band leader), led all the meetings, gave a thoughtful exposition along the lines of Holiness and personal

The "Trumpet" march led off the programme, and set the pace for the festival of delights. The selections considered were "The Lifeboat," "Songs From Deumark No. 2," "The Call to War," and "Great Masters No. 1." In each and all the Band showed its distinctive excellence and conception of the ideas of the various composers. The bandmaster, Adjutant Hanagan, secured excellent results.

ADJT. AND MRS. BYERS
Welcomed as New Chancellors for the Halifax Division.

On November 27 a great welcome meeting was conducted in the Halifax No. 1 Citadel by Major Byers and Adjutant and Mrs. Byers were formally welcomed and installed as the new Chancellors of the Halifax Division. Present were the new Mayor of the Rescued Home, and Captain and Mrs. Richardson of Halifax II, and Lieut. Hardy were all welcomed into the ranks of the City Officers and Corps united for this gathering, and a good crowd of Soldiers and friends were present.

Adjutant Cornish spoke words of welcome on behalf of the men, and Mrs. Major Barr for the women, and then the new Officers expressed their appreciation of the very hearty welcome given them. Altogether the meeting was one of a cheerful and blessed character, and the comrades went home feeling that before them there was a very successful and prosperous outlook for a soul-saving time during the coming winter.

On Sunday Adjutant and Mrs. Byers assisted by Ensign Gray, held the day visiting the City Corps. At Halifax II, in the morning, a very blessed time was experienced. On Sunday afternoon, the day was visited. The Adjutant gave a very helpful address on Joshua.

At night a great crowd was present at No. 1 Citadel. The inside meeting was preceded by a rousing amenity. In the Hall the Spirit of the presence was great. From the opening song till the finish, the Adjutant's subject was "God's Eternal Purpose." His words were driven home with a powerful effect by the Spirit of God. Adjutant Ritchie gave the invitation, and seven souls came forward and accepted Christ.

On Monday night the Chancellor conducted a United Meeting at Dartmouth. At the close one soul sought Christ.

On Sunday, Nov. 10th, Major Barr was at Stellarton, where good meetings were held, and at the close of the day's fighting nine souls sought cleansing from sin.

Altogether the spiritual side of our work in the Field Command was very bright. Souls are being saved all over the Division, and we believe that down here in the East we are on the verge of a mighty awakening—H. Dray, Captain.

SUCCESSFUL SALE OF WORK
What the Helping Hand League Did.

On Thursday, Nov. 14th, at Colchester, there was a sale of work. The sale of work consisted of articles made by the Helping Hand League, which has been formed since our new Officers. Adjutant and Mrs. Rook have been in command. We realized the sum of $40 for the benefit of the Corps and the City. Our other comrades helped and worked nobly.

At night an interesting program was given by the Band, which was appreciated by a large number of our comrades.

SIGNALIZED WITH SUCCESS.

Re-opening of Newcastle by Major Taylor.

The re-opening of Newcastle by Major Taylor was conducted by Major L. E. Taylor, the Divisional Commander, assisted by Staff-Captain and Mrs. McDonald (the Officers appointed to Newcastle).

On Saturday night the inside meeting was preceded by a stirring opening, which drew a great crowd. From the commencement great interest was shown by the towns people. Inside a good crowd gathered to give The Army a real good welcome back to town. Many expressed their joy at the return of the meeting. The meeting concluded with one soul at the Cross.

The Sunday meetings were well attended; a good spirit prevailing throughout the day. In the evening meeting three souls sought pardon.

On Monday night a special meeting entitled "War Memories" was conducted by Mrs. Staff-Captain Coombs, assisted by the Corp Officers and the Officers from Chatham. Altogether the meetings were inspiring, and the interest and sympathy shown by the people speaks for itself. "For Newcastle—One Interested."

FAREWELL AND WELCOME.

Winter Campaign Brought.

On Sunday, Nov. 17th, Captains Hargrave and Milton travelled from Niagara Falls, Ont. On the following Wednesday we welcomed our new Officer, Captain H. B. Clayton. After a rousing welcome the Captain conducted a splendid indoor service. This was made very interesting and inspiring. He gave the day's fighting nine souls sought cleansing from sin.

Altogether the spiritual side of our work in the Field Command was very bright. Souls are being saved all over the Division, and we believe that down here in the East we are on the verge of a mighty awakening—H. Dray, Captain.

WAYWARD BOYS RETURN.

Drunks and All Kinds of Sinners Saved at Moose Jaw.

Treasurer Goodwin and Bandmaster Delamont led on at Moose Jaw during the absence of our Officers at the Winnipeg Councils. On Tuesday night Sister Weir led the testimony meeting, and one soul came to Jesus.

On Saturday night two men came boldly forward and yielded their all to God. One of these dear fellows told us afterwards that his parents were both Salvation Army Officers in England, and that he had wandered away from God, but he was sure God had restored to him the joys of His Salvation.

On Sunday afternoon Bro. Vic Mitchellmore read the Scriptures, and a lad of 15 years who had run away from home and parents at Medicine Hat came to God and got victory through the blood.

On Sunday night two brigades were in action in the open-air. The City Hall was well filled. The meeting was conducted by Treasurer Goodwin, aided by Bro. Oxho, who read the Bible portion. On a rainy day, the meeting had the joy of seeing four souls obtaining mercy.

On Tuesday night, when Adjutant Hargrave was in the hall, the Hall was well filled, and one soul surrendered to God.

On Wednesday night we had the pleasure of welcoming a long time, the Soldiers boldly re-consecrating their lives to God's service. Last Saturday two men came forward and surrendered to God, and although they were under the influence of liquor, the power of God took hold of them and they rose to their feet sobered and saved.

Mrs. Adjutant Hargrave gave the address on Sunday night, when a young woman sought salvation—Mac.

NEWS FROM GARNISH.

We have been having splendid meetings at Garnish, Newfoundland. On a recent Sunday night two souls sought the pardon of their sins. On Tuesday, October 30th, we had a supper, and the sum of $30 was realized. This goes towards getting the Quarters finished. Captain A. Hurry is leading on, and the general interest in the people is that the is the right person in the right place.

On Sunday afternoon, Nov. 3rd, there were three enrolled as Soldiers—N. Barber.

TWO SURRENDERS.

A wonderful power at Uxbridge. Soldiers, converts, and recruits turned out well. In the afternoon meeting three persons raised their hands for prayer, and one surrendered.

At night, after a rousing prayer meeting, one soul came to the mercy-seat—Interested.

BRANTFORD'S AWAKENING CONTINUES.

Results of Soul-saving Work and Attendance Soaring.

The revival spirit at Brantford shows no sign of dropping. The Tuesday night School, which has so far increased in point of numbers that it has become necessary to use the Citadel, in place of the small hall that has hitherto been used.

On Thursday night, the Songster Bridge, Songster Leader Johnston in charge, assisted by Ensign Gray, led on at the open-air and helped to make the inside meeting attractive by their singing.

Knee-drill on Sunday morning was a Pentecostal time, two of the loud converts taking an active part in the meeting. An increase over the past Sunday's attendance has again to be recorded.

The Holiness meeting will be especially remembered, for the Ensign's splendid prayer meeting, which was a real unity. One soul for conversion was the result of this meeting.

The Free-and-Easy in the afternoon was a feast of music and song. Every testimony had to be given by song or chorus. In this meeting Treasurer Johnson announced a substantial increase in the financial income over the past few weeks. Secretary T. Brown gave the Bible reading, which was an inspiring address to the converts of the past two weeks.

Owing to the fact of having to turn people away on Sunday evening, a prayer meeting was held about 6:30 people) was taken for the winter months. The effort was justified, for a crowd of 425 were present. The meeting was a real unity. "Infidel's Death-Bed Scenes." Fifteen minutes before the usual meeting were devoted to music and song by Soldiers. At the close of the meeting, four young men gave their hearts and lives into God's keeping, thus making forty surrenders in this meeting—Reras for Ensign and Mr. Trickey.

WALKED TWO MILES
And Got Saved at the Mercy-Seat.

Captain Sidney Weeks visited Welland last week-end and conducted some very helpful meetings. On Saturday night a man left his feet convulsed with sin, and that he ought to get right with God. Next morning he walked two miles to the knee-drill, and he has since been a Soldier. There was great rejoicing over this surrender.

At night the meetings were well attended. At night, after an impressive service, three souls sought salvation. Captain Crawford, the City, is doing well in the Corps.

At night, one soul knelt at the mercy-seat, while two others consecrated their hearts to God and The Army—B. S.

THEATRE CAMPAIGN AT KINGSTON.

Military Men at Mercy-Seat—Major Miller Leads First Step.

A special soul-saving campaign is on at Kingston, Ont., just now. Every Sunday for the next few months "Specials" are being sent to lead the meetings, and great interest is being aroused in the series of meetings. Last Sunday saw the opening of the Theatre, where the Gideon Miller, of T. H. Q., was chosen to fire the first shot. The afternoon and night meetings were held on the Griffin Theatre, where two meetings of every succeeding Sunday will be held until such time as the new Citadel is completed. The Theatre is right in the main street of the city, and quite near to the spot where the new building will be erected.

On Sunday afternoon the Major addressed a fine audience of earnest men and women. At night, although a late snowstorm considered, a magnificent crowd attended the Theatre. The Major was assisted by Adjutant and Mrs. Allen, the Band, String Band, and Male Quartette. In the prayer meeting nine persons boldly volunteered to serve God, and thirteen two soldiers in khaki uniforms. With such a good start the campaign should now have much success. God grant it.

A BOOM AT SIMCOE.

33 Conversions in Fourteen Days.

Simcoe is booming! At the town's folk say. And that is what we have to say about the Corps here. This was a record number. The open-air services had the greatest attendances for a long time, and the inside congregations were tip-top. Each Sunday the numbers are an increase on the previous one.

The week-night meetings also are on the boom. Last Sunday one soul sought the Saviour, and on Thursday night a backslider came home.

On Sunday night two sisters came to the pentecost-form, followed by a young woman, a backslider, and then two young men. There have been 33 conversions here, besides children, in fourteen days. A gracious revival is in progress at Wingham. The Officers (Capt. Pugmire, son of Officer Hargrave) are united for a good winter's work. Just at the moment the Corps is plunged into the winter's work. The night's meeting was a real unity. "Infidel's Death-Bed Scenes." Fifteen minutes before the usual meeting were devoted to music and song by Soldiers. At the close of the meeting, four young men gave their hearts and lives into God's keeping, thus making forty surrenders in this meeting—Reras for Ensign and Mr. Trickey.

Promoted to Glory.

SISTER MRS. JACKSON OF PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE.

We regret to have to record the death of Sister Mrs. Jackson, who passed away on the morning of Tuesday, October 22nd, at her home in Portage la Prairie. She was a devoted Christian, and had been a Soldier for about 16 years, and during that time worked hard for the extension of God's Kingdom. She was a splendid attendance of sympathizing friends at the Memorial Service conducted by Captain and Mrs. Taylor. The husband of our departed Sister, who is now left, humbly speaking, to pursue life's journey alone, will be a great blessing to the inspired words of the Psalmist ever be his experience: "The Eternal God is thy refuge, and underneath are the everlasting Arms." II. V. J.

PRAYERS ANSWERED.

The work of God is excellent at Little Bay Island in a very special manner, and prayers are being answered. Four more souls have recently been converted. On October 30th we had a Pious Meeting, which went off splendidly. The people gave very willingly, and the young men, who were helped nobly—B. Way, Cadet.

CAPT AND MRS. RICHARDSON.

Farwell from New Glasgow—New Officers Welcomed.

Captain and Mrs. Richardson, after eleven months' successful fighting, have said good-bye to New Glasgow. At their farewell meeting two souls sought pardon. We had Captain Dray from Halifax on the following Sunday, and then the new Officers were welcomed. We also said good-bye to our comrades. Bro. Prude, who has gone to assist at the Metropole at Halifax. We are sorry to lose our comrade, who is a practical Christian, and a thorough Salvationist, and has been a great blessing in the Corps since his conversion. Two more souls got saved—L. J. S.

VISITED BY TWO ENVOYS.

Envoys Ilanuco conducted the meetings at Theford for week-end Nov. 9th and 10th. The Envoys' address were a blessing and inspiration to all.

Envoys Brown and Brown have just concluded a ten-day campaign here. The meetings were crowded from the platform to the doors, and many had to be turned away. There were several conversions. The meetings have created a deep interest. Definite conversions will surely be the result. Finances were very good—M. H.

THE FIELD SECRETARY.

The Army's work among those of the "Underworld."

A large crowd gathered again at night. The Colonel's subject was "Indecision." The Holy Spirit was present in great power. The number yielded their hearts to God, making 17 seekers for the day. It was a glorious wind-up to a successful campaign.

A gracious revival is in progress at Wingham. The Officers (Capt. Pugmire, son of Officer Hargrave) are united for a good winter's work. Just at the moment the Corps is plunged into the winter's work. The night's meeting was a real unity. "Infidel's Death-Bed Scenes." On Sunday, November 3rd, at Clinton, after the meeting was over, one man who had been away for years returned to give his heart to God, and is now taking his stand. Our Officers, Captain Gibb and Lieut. Whitlock, of Grace Hospital, have been praying and telling for the last five months without seeing a soul come to God, but the present meeting has brought one soul knelt at the mercy-seat, and two others consecrated their hearts to God and The Army—B. S.

On Wednesday, Nov. 13th, the comrades and friends at St. James Band (of which we are proud in the present) were present at the Grace and Lieut. White, a hearty welcome. Two backsliders returned to the fold.

On Sunday, Nov. 17th, we had a glorious time, although Capt. Berg was laid aside through sickness. Ensign Halpeny, Captain Emerson, and Lieut. Austen, of Grace Hospital, assisted all day. Lieut. Austen delivered a powerful message at night, and before the close of the meeting one sister knelt at the Cross and one backslider returned to God—Treas.

EIGHT CAPTURES.

On Sunday night, at St. John II, N.B., three souls knelt at the Cross, and on the following Sunday five more.

On the 18th we had a great united meeting, led by Major and Mrs. Taylor. A large number of Officers and friends were present. Lieut. Green and Lieut. Ricker are doing well. The Hall has been freshly painted, and new lights have been installed—M. R.

THE SCHOOL OF RESULTS

OR WHAT CAME OF THE VISIONS OF CAPTAIN DURABLE.

CHAPTER I.
THE CAPTAIN LOSES HIS LIEUTENANT.

HE had only to be in his company a few minutes to know that Capt. Durable was yearning to get the people to follow him. He had made an indelible impression on all hearts by his daring onslaughts into the ranks of the enemy. So active and aggressive was he that it was a saying in the Division that Captain Durable was ready for any fight, as he gloried in hardships and triumph over difficulties. To sum him up in a few words, one would say that he was wedded to his work, and that he loved the saying, "True, that they were the happiest who were to duty."

He had no other motive; nor was he impeded with any side objects, his eye was single, his all being invested in The Salvation Army and the winning of souls. The mutings of Captain Durable may be interesting to those who love souls, for in spite of his great zeal and enterprise there was from his point of view something lacking in his Corps. Things were sagging, to use his own words. "It is a pity," he said, "that I am sagging down too, either I am, or I think I am. What do you think about it, Lieut.?"

"Well," said the Lieutenant, with his arms akimbo and the dish towel dangling from his elbow, "I certainly don't look as if I'm sagging, am I, Standstill?"

"Then," said Captain Durable, "something must be wrong. I never do it, the devil overtake me. It seems that he has a mortgage on the place already. It seems that the Captain thrust his foot into his pockets and began to pace the floor, as only Captains can who feel the gravity and responsibility of their positions. And he said, 'It seems that the bottom falls out of everything; an evil influence is at work which destroys the results as sure as a rotten apple spoils a barrel of good ones. Take the last Special meeting, for instance. Everyone seemed to have a good time, all appeared harmonious and happy. But bang! Mrs. Snobs gets after Mrs. Dukes over some little thing. Did you hear anything about it, Lieut.?'"

"Indeed I have," said the Lieutenant. "I am afraid that many things are told me that I never hear you. I have known, for instance, some of the trouble which led up to the Snobs and Sulfas bother. I always feel that it is my duty to stand in between a Captain and his Lieutenant by getting the story-tellers at work; he is very subtle, isn't he?" said the Captain with feeling.

"Never fear, Captain, when anyone comes to me with any yarns I tell them to mind what they are saying, as I always tell you; that these any gossipers who would like to tell things to me they would not tell to you."

"What led up to the wrangle with Snobs and Sulfas?" asked the Captain.

suspicious nature, she thought that when he was talking about her, the other was Mrs. Sulfas was asking a comrade to go and deal with a soul at the Penitentiary. The matter is all past now, so I understand. They were brought together and prayed over it, and are good friends again."

"Yes, that is past, I know; but the old Corps is dragging," muttered Captain Durable. "Lieutenant Sombor went on with his kitchen work. He had his own thoughts on the subject. He was loyal to his Captain, in whom he had great faith; so he listened in silence. He was new in the field, whilst the Captain had a long experience."

The Captain continued: "It's a mighty hard proposition, and it still remains a fact, that things are sagging down and becoming stationary in the Corps of F—." (the Captain repeated "the Corps of F—" in a doleful voice.) "What do I do not know. What do you think of the situation, Lieutenant?"

"Lieutenant Sombor shrugged his shoulders. 'It's hard to tell, Captain. Our work is to bless and save the people, and to do so seems to be the most difficult of tasks. It does seem to me, however, that there is too little prayer mixed with the efforts we make. More prayer among the comrades, more faith in action, ought to do a great deal to change things in the Corps of F—.'"

This opinion was ventured by the Lieutenant with a choking voice. He was not accustomed to giving his opinion in such manner. Still the thought that it might help Capt. Durable encouraged him to tell what he thought. In the midst of their conversation the door-bell rang. "A telegram for Lieutenant Sombor," it read thus: "Captain Saver, typhoid fever. Go to T— and hold on."

"Poor Saver! down with typhoid," said Durable. "You will have to go to-night, Lieut. nat."

He had no other motive; nor was he impeded with any side objects, his eye was single, his all being invested in The Salvation Army and the winning of souls. The mutings of Captain Durable may be interesting to those who love souls, for in spite of his great zeal and enterprise there was from his point of view something lacking in his Corps. Things were sagging, to use his own words. "It is a pity," he said, "that I am sagging down too, either I am, or I think I am. What do you think about it, Lieut.?"

"Well," said the Lieutenant, with his arms akimbo and the dish towel dangling from his elbow, "I certainly don't look as if I'm sagging, am I, Standstill?"

"Then," said Captain Durable, "something must be wrong. I never do it, the devil overtake me. It seems that he has a mortgage on the place already. It seems that the Captain thrust his foot into his pockets and began to pace the floor, as only Captains can who feel the gravity and responsibility of their positions. And he said, 'It seems that the bottom falls out of everything; an evil influence is at work which destroys the results as sure as a rotten apple spoils a barrel of good ones. "Indeed I have," said the Lieutenant. "I am afraid that many things are told me that I never hear you. I have known, for instance, some of the trouble which led up to the Snobs and Sulfas bother. I always feel that it is my duty to stand in between a Captain and his Lieutenant by getting the story-tellers at work; he is very subtle, isn't he?" said the Captain with feeling.

The week-end meetings will need. Sombor did not take it to matter-of-fact. "Me to go? I have never led a life in my life. It must be a mistake."

"No mistake, Lieutenant," said the Captain. "The war demands it. God will help you and give you victory."

The Lieutenant hid himself to his room as soon as possible. There he could commune with God and find grace sufficient to enable him to obey. On his knees he there remembered that it was for this purpose he had left all to follow Jesus all the way.

As he departed, the Captain said: "Write and let me know how the Captain is getting on, and if he improves. Go in for victory. I will pray for you, Good-bye."

Soon Lieutenant Sombor was speeding on his way to T—, and Captain Durable was alone.

The words of the Lieutenant had left a great impression on the Captain. He had always been in the habit of talking freely with his Lieutenant regarding the war and its difficulties, and he knew that he would miss his counsel and advice in matters pertaining to these things.

In this frame of mind, brooding over the loss of his Corps, he remained alone for some time, when to his amazement he seemed to hear a voice speaking to him. He heard the sound, but could not tell whence it came.

Said the voice: "Capt. Durable, for some time I have heard you go 'It is results that tell.' I have observed your planning and scheming in your great work, and I have noticed that there is very little attention given to results in spite of all that you say about 'Results being the proof of one's work.' Durable looked up and saw in the dimness of the little quarters, the figure of a scribbler, tall and spare. He stood with writing pad in hand.

The look of surprise was met by the scribbler with calmness. "I thought I had always worked for good results," stammered the Captain.

"True, but what results? Good results can only be obtained by the use of right means. I want you to go with me, and as you go observe. You know that our lives are fleeting, we have no time to lose. What the result of our work is of first value in this world and in the world to come, so that we have no time to be indefinite, or waste our energies."

Captain Durable listened attentively, especially to the waste of his energies. He thought and he thought that he had worked as hard to retain the results of his labors, and he was not as if he had been doing for nothing. Anyway he listened as the scribbler went on.

"If you will be instructed, it may be as you are instructed, it may be to your future profit." The scribbler beckoned to the Captain to follow and he did so, apparently without power of resistance.

The scribbler, speaking as they went, said: "The academy, if such it can be called, will be the plan of the 'School of results.' Its object is for the regeneration of those who enter it. It means the putting on of the new. 'Old things pass away, and all things become new.' It is for you, however, and do the things calculated to produce the best results. I must leave you now, but you will see me again, other counsel given. See that you do your part."

The scribbler disappeared and Captain Durable tried to break away. It seemed as if he was glued to the spot. Then he thought: what did he want? He had decided that he would be abandoned, and an open-air meeting held instead.

"You turn on the lamps, Lieut.," he said, "while I go down and have a word with this stranger in the hall."

The stranger proved to be no other than the man who had run away from his home. The Captain pleaded with him to get away from some of the things he did not draw the deserter into conversation. At last he said: "Come along with the Lieutenant and see the three young men in the hall."

The three young men were in the hall, and the Captain, by the way, consisted of a back kitchen in the house of some of the more kindly friends of the Army in the town, and one half of the kitchen served as a living room, the other as a bedroom, a certain looking like a division.

Almost the whole of that night the two officers prayed and pleaded with the wanderers, and then in the early hours of the morning he gave way, told them how he came to the town, and admitted his need of help. After more prayer and urging he fell on his knees and cried for pardon.

Tired though they were, the two ladies continued to pray and exhort the now penitent man, and just as the first rays of the rising sun came through their ill-fitted window he said that he believed God had pardoned him. "And now," he continued, rising to his feet, "I am going to tell her what I had planned to do and ask her forgiveness."

Will any earnest hearers be so kind as to listen to the details, but to look to God at all times, the Captain and his Lieutenant, who had been so long in the 'station' and saw him start off to his home. They lost sight of him for several years—throughout no

The Stranger Who Visited an Army Hall—He Got Nervous, and What He Is Doing Now.

Nine miles north of Leamington he reached the shores of Lake Erie. The thought was not very comforting to the troubled and despondent man who during the last day and night since he left his home and wife and little ones had walked twenty-five miles in order to throw himself into the dark waters of the lake. He had decided upon this course as the best means to end his life with all its sorrow and misfortune.

As night came on, he trudged wearily into the little town of Leamington, and there heard The Salvation Army holding an open-air. There were just three of the men in the room, the Lieutenant, and the drummer. They had a hard fight. It was hard enough to know that the (townpeople were against them, but when a gang of rogues started tormenting them, life became almost unbearable.

fault of theirs, however, and long after they had become separated, endeavoured to find out how their strange comrade was getting along. But all attempts at tracing him failed.

One day, however, the Captain (who by this time had risen to the rank of Lieut.-Colonel), went specialising at a certain Corps, and made the hundred miles north of Toronto. As his train pulled into the depot he saw a number of comrades on the platform ready to welcome him, the first to grasp his hand and utter words of greeting was the Colour-Sergeant.

"Colonel," he said, his face beaming with joy, "you don't know how glad I am to see you. Don't you remember me?"

"Well, I'm afraid you have the best of me this time, Sergeant," replied the Colonel. "What is your name?"

The Sergeant did so. And immediately the Colonel's eyes grew large with astonishment. "You don't mean to tell me that you're M—?" he said.

"That's me, all right, Colonel," returned the Sergeant. "You haven't forgotten the smoky barracks and the night you spent praying with me?"

One Way to Catch Fish. The fishermen in some parts of Portugal make material increases in the amount of their catch by the use of the luminous bait. This is done by a fluid secured from the body of a fish which is quite plentiful in the waters of that country, while it is quite rare in other parts of the world. The fluid is spread on a piece of meat bait and the effect of the application may be observed at once. The luminosity increases as the bait is placed in the water, and the attention of the fish is attracted to it at once.

Promoted to Glory. MRS. SERGT.-MAJ. MOAT OF DOVERCOURT

Only a month has passed since the sudden and accidental death of our comrade Bandman Wood, and now, with even more startling suddenness, Mrs. Moat, wife of the Corps Sergeant-Major, has been taken from our midst. On Saturday morning, Nov. 23rd, she bade good-bye to her husband in the usual manner. When she returned at noon he was horror-struck to find his wife lying on "the floor dead." For several years Mrs. Moat had been a great sufferer with heart and nervous trouble, and it was supposed that she must have had a sudden stroke and have fallen striking her head on the gas stove.

Adjutant Hoddinott, the Corps Officer, was quickly upon the scene and he heard the Chief Clerk, news, and Lieut.-Colonel Chandler, the D. C. came along too in order to do what he could to comfort and console the stricken husband. All that night the Colonel remained in the house spending most of the night in prayer and reading of the Word with our brother.

Mrs. Chandler was also there, "Over the River," and then the Colonel read a short passage from God's Word, making various comments on the comfort and bereaved husband and relatives.

"Mrs. Moat was a woman who wore white robes on earth, and we are sure that she has now gone to a palm of victory," was one of his striking sentences.

The service then concluded, and after all present had taken a last look at our Sister in her coffin, a procession was formed and the body was taken to the Mount Pleasant Cemetery, where another short service was conducted at the grave side.

Our sympathies go out to Sergt.-Major Moat, and the prayers of our readers are asked on his behalf that God may comfort and strengthen him in this hour of his sorrow.

helping to cheer the long and lonely hours of the vigil, and performing little acts of service.

The funeral service was held on the following Monday, and the Hall was filled with a sorrowful and sympathetic crowd. Brother and Sister Walker sang together, "Something Well Understood," being the song our late Sister had sung at the graveside of Bro. Wood, just a month previous. Bro. Neil then spoke, paying a tribute to the consistent life and good service of Mrs. Moat. Ever ready to help the poor and distressed, she could well be described as a "woman of the world" as it could be truly said of her that she was "full of good works and alms deeds which she did." A very close friend of our dear sister was then asked to say a few words in the person of Major Cameron. The Major spoke of the admiration and love with which she had always regarded Mrs. Moat, and of the first time she met her, she had been drawn to her by observing her quiet, Christlike, and continuous ministry to others. In the home of the sister, the poor and distressed she went in and out, a veritable angel of hope and mercy. For three and a half years she had been a great sufferer in spite of her own physical infirmities. She was ever seeking to lead souls to Christ, and her comfort and caring for his wounded hand. The poor fellow succumbed to his dreadful injury, but as he was passing away he said: "My dear friend, I'm saved and going home to God. Many there are who can praise God for the beautiful life and big loving heart of our departed sister. She lived Jesus Christ, and the lesson God would teach through her audacious presentation of the most perfect copy her in her beautiful devotion and constant self-sacrifice. For the good of others."

Chandler soloed "Over the River," and then the Colonel read a short passage from God's Word, making various comments on the comfort and bereaved husband and relatives.

Adjutant Harry Green has been appointed to assist in the Financial Department at Territorial Headquarters.

F. J. Billarde, Esq., the Superintendent of Neglected Children for the Province of Manitoba, and Judge of the Juvenile Court in Winnipeg, has issued his annual report, and entitled it "Children in the Making." Mr. Billarde is not slow to appreciate the work of The Army, and says, with reference to the work of Staff-Captain and Mrs. McAmmond while in charge of the Detention Home: "But for the loyal and indefatigable efforts of these and other workers it would have been impossible to have dealt with the amount of work which has come our way. I am indebted for the sympathetic and efficient co-operation of The Salvation Army Officers. As I said last year, no body of men or women in our city (Winnipeg) is doing a better social work than they."

Ensign Stitt has been visiting Peaton, Port Hope, Montreal, and Ottawa during the last few days, in connection with the Property Department.

We are glad to learn that Adjutant and Mrs. Hoddinott's little girl, who recently was severely scalded, is doing nicely. No serious results are looked for in consequence of the accident.

Ensign and Mrs. Wallace White, of St. John's, Nfld., have been made happy by the arrival of a little girl to their home. Congratulations.

Congratulations are in order also for Captain and Mrs. Russell Clark of Collingwood, who have welcomed a son.

Captain H. B. Clayton, late of the Highland Division, has been appointed to Niagara Falls, Ont. Captain Thirder, late of that Corps, has been appointed to Peterborough.

A second Corps has been opened in Calgary, Alberta, and Capt. Lizzie Newell and Lieutenant Mardall have been appointed to take charge.

The temple of God is not without us; it is within us, and it is our fault if the sheep and oxen fill the courts, as the doors swing only outward, and the key of the temple is in our hands alone.

There is no doubt that there is something in the idea of developing spirituality by isolation, but the isolation must be of the right sort, and can never be wholly complete. The body may be withdrawn from the fellowship of men, but the true spirit can never sever the ties of kinship, and our withdrawal from men is only that we may secure a truer perspective, and

THE CHRISTMAS WAR CRY

A Description of Its Literary and Pictorial Contents

"THE CHRISTMAS WAR CRY" this year will be the "Best yet" according to the opinion of the Editor and the Printers.

Its literary contents are of an exceptionally interesting nature, as will be seen from the following brief synopsis:—

THE FRANKINCENSE OF A HOLY LIFE is an article by the Commissioner dealing with the powerful influence that is exerted by people who live holily.

THE TERRITORIAL STAFF BAND is an interesting sketch of that famous musical organization, illustrated by pen and ink sketches of some of the members.

SALVATIONISTS OF INTERNATIONAL INFLUENCE. This is a series of personal sketches, written by Brigadier Cunningham, Editor of the Field Officer, and illustrated by the portraits of the Officers concerned.

THE ARMY'S HUMANITARIAN WORK is an article written for the purpose of dispelling the idea in the minds of some that the work of The Salvation Army entirely consists of holding evangelistic services. It shows what an immense amount of Christian effort is carried out behind the scenes. It is illustrated by photographs of some of our Institutions.

QUAINT CHRISTMAS CUSTOMS is a number of short articles describing how Christmas is observed in various lands.

FROM DEVIL WORSHIP TO CHRISTIANITY is a thrilling story of Army work in India, written by Harold Begbie, the author of "The Boon Men."

THE WORK OF THE ENQUIRY DEPARTMENT is an article which reveals, in a striking manner, the romance, pathos, and tragedy that lie behind the cases dealt with.

MARY, WON—LOST, AND FOUND AGAIN AT AN ARMY PENITENT-FORM. This is a story of great human interest in which is related the courtship and marriage of a young couple; how a gossip's tongue caused their separation; and how, after six years, they were brought together again in a remarkable and dramatic fashion at an Army penitent-form.

Then the Editor has some final words to say to his readers concerning the season and the last Christmas Cry he will edit in Canada. And now to describe the PICTORIAL SECTION. The magnificent reproduction of our glorified Founder, printed in two colours, will be highly prized by all Salvationists and friends of The Army.

THE CHRISTMAS MAIL IN A CANADIAN MINING CAMP is a picture by a well known artist which typifies an interesting phase of life in this great country of ours.

CHRISTMAS IN SHACKTOWN depicts a visit of The Army Officers to a home in one of the poorest quarters of a Canadian town.

HER FIRST UNIFORM is a charming picture of Army home life. It shows a daughter putting on her uniform for the first time, while her parents, brother and sister look on admiringly.

THE SUPPLEMENT is entitled "The Nursery" and shows a cottager feeding a lamb out of a bottle while her little girl looks on with amusement.

THE COVER PICTURES are the finest piece of printing ever done by The Army press. The front page is bright and attractive. It shows a young girl taking a basket of provisions to a poor family.

On the back page is a splendid picture of Rocky Mountain scenery. Page two contains a duo-tone reproduction of General Bramwell Booth with an autograph message to Canadian readers. DON'T FAIL to get a copy of this splendid Christmas Number. It will be a seasonable gift to send home to your friends.

develop a mightier love for our fellow-creatures by closer communion with God. If we find that the ordinary quiet hour is denied us, we had better conclude that it is the will of God that we should develop by other means, and we should bear in mind that God never puts a man or woman where the necessary communion with Him is impossible. There are things in their daily work and personal habits, little indulgences and selfishness, to which that holy Spirit is attached.

Oh, I beseech you, make me the faithful. Let there be no reserve body, soul, spirit, as we sometimes say, lay upon the altar. Consecrate yourselves to your Lord in simplicity and sincerity, with simple faith that God will bless you, and give you His Holy Spirit to maintain this consecration.

GENERAL WILLIAM BOOTH.

The following verses were sent to us by a friend of The Army living at Ottawa:

Great Booth is dead, friend of the poor;

The poor will mourn their loss.

He won no victories with the sword;

This Soldier of the Cross.

His theme was Christ, the crucified;

He asked no man his creed.

His driving arms were quick to rise;

Around some friend in need.

He found the wanderer, brought him back

(None were too bad to meet);

He ministered to all his wants,

And placed him on his feet.

Or if a sister fallen low,

He raised up just the same;

Pointed to Christ, her risen Lord,

Who washed away her shame.

Thousands of drunkards he reclaimed,

And gladly took them in;

His heart yearned o'er the sinner

While he condemned the sin.

Thorny and steep that rugged road

This peaceful Soldier trod;

But he obeyed that "Still small voice"

Till summoned Home by God.

His great work was not ended,

Till only just begun;

And God will bless the mantle

As it falls upon his son.

HOLINESS.

Tune—Where Do You Journey?
209: Song-Book, 438.
Oh, what are you living for comrade?
Oh, what is your purpose in life?
What are you doing, my comrade,
To banish away sin and strife?
Is Jesus first in your affection?
Is sinners' Salvation your aim—
To bring every one to subjection
And glorify His precious name?

Chorus:

Oh, say, are you fighting for God?
Oh, say, are you fighting for God?
Are you for the War consecrated?
Oh, say, are you fighting for God?

Poor sinners are dying, my comrade,
So careless they're rushing to Hell;
Will you not stop them, my comrade—

Of Jesus' great love to them tell?
Oh, will you not, comrade, surrender
Your all to the service of God?
And live for His glory and honour,
And fight 'neath the Fire and the Blood?

Tune—Shall We Meet? 156; Song-
Book, 446.

2 Jesus calls me, I am going
Where He opens up the way,
To the toiling in His vineyard,
Shrinking not a single day.

Chorus:

Where He leads me, where He
leads,
Where He leads me, where He
leads,
I will follow all the way.

Friends may shun me, toils await me,
Care and sorrow be my lot;
But I've chosen Christ, my Saviour,
I am going, call me not.

Jesus calls me, I am going
To the life He wills for me;
This poor world can't still the aching
Of my heart, or set it free.

WAR AND TESTIMONY.

Tune—Saints of God, 130.
3 I have found a great salvation,
In Glory to God!
From my sins I've liberation,
Glory to God!
I was sunk in misery,
Bound by Satan's cruel fetters,
But the Saviour set me free,
Glory to God!

Now my heart is full of singing,
I am kept each day from sinning;
Oh, this joy I can't express!
For it never knows an ending,
I've a life of happiness.

Sinner, you can have this blessing;
Come to Christ, your sins confess-
ing.
Then your life will happy be,
And in Heaven you'll get a mansion;
There to live eternally.

Tunes—Happy Song, 235; Song-
Book, 586.

4 We are marching on with shield
and banner bright,
We will work for God, and battle
for the right;
We will praise His name, rejoicing
in His might,
And we'll work till Jesus calls.

In the open-air our Army we prepare,
At we rally round our blessed standard there;
And the Saviour's cross we gladly

And the Saviour's cross we gladly

SALVATION.

Tunes—Austria 164; Song-Book 44
5 Come, ye sinners, drifting downwards,
Weak and wounded, sick and sore,
Jesus ready stands to save you,
Full of pity, love, and power!
He is able,
He is willing, doubt no more.

Let not conscience make you linger,
Nor of fitness fondly dream;
All the fitness lie requireth
'Is to feel your need of Him;
This He gives you;
To the Spirit's ruling beam
Come, ye weary, heavy laden,
Ruined and ruined by the fall;
If you tarry till you're better,
You will never come at all;
Not the righteous;
Sinners Jesus came to call

Tunes—Depth of Mercy, 80; Song-
Book, 185.

6 Depth of mercy! Can there be
Mercy still reserved for me?
Can my God His wrath forbear?
Me, the chief of sinners, spare?

Chorus:
God is love, I know, I feel,
Jesus lives and loves me still.

I have longed with His grace,
Long provoked Him to His face,
Would not hearken to His calls,
Grieved Him by a thousand falls.

There for me the Saviour stands,
Shows His wounds, and spreads His hands!
God is love, I know, I feel,
Jesus lives and loves me still.

All-round success continues to attend the work of Captain and
Mrs. Cummings at Toronto I.
These Officers are greatly loved, and their leadership is a source of inspiration to all the local comrades. On Sunday morning, Nov.
17, six persons knelt at the mercy-seat seeking full salvation. At night five more souls publicly surrendered. The converts of last Sunday were well to the front testifying, etc. A bright future is ahead of Toronto I.

WEDDING AT WINDSOR.

Major Morris Performs Ceremony.
A unique wedding was recently solemnized in the Salvation Army
Citadel, Windsor. Sister Rhonda Keeler was united in marriage to Band-man Frank Harding of this city.
The ceremony was performed by the Divisional Officer, Major F.
Morris, of London. The event was in the nature of a Halleluiah wedding, and was largely attended by friends of the young couple, and members of The Salvation Army.

Both the bride and groom are members of the Songster Brigade.
The wedding march was beautiful, ly rendered by the Band, which also played a selection, "Thoughts from Great Masters." The Songsters sang a very appropriate song during the ceremony. The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Adjutant Knight, Captain Martin led in prayer, while Major Morris read the articles of marriage, following which congratulatory speeches were made by Bro. H. Robinson and Sister Smith, also a few words from the groom and a solo by the bride,
William Keeler, brother of the bride, acted as best man, and Sister Florence Harding, sister of the groom, was a bridesmaid.—Local paper.
